

NORTHEASTERN BAPTIST PRESS

The publisher you can trust

Dear Friend:

Throughout my years serving as a pastor, church planter, college professor, and college president, many fellow believers have come to me seeking a book on a particular topic. Sometimes I had an immediate answer to suggest. Sometimes I would ask them to give me a few days to look around and get back to them. Early in my ministry there were a handful of publishers that I knew I could trust to not print something that contradicted sound Biblical teaching. This allowed me a third answer. I could say, "I cannot think of anything off the top of my head that I would recommend on that topic. I will investigate it and get back to you. However, anything published by _____ would come from a solid Biblical perspective. That is a publisher you can trust." Sadly, several of those publishers have been bought and sold and do not necessarily share the same Biblical values that once characterized them.

Sensing the need for Bible believing Christians to once again have a publisher that pastors, church planters, and professors can recommend without hesitation, led to the launching of Northeastern Baptist Press (NEBP). NEBP is the publisher you can trust! Every author that publishes with NEBP is required to sign a contract stating that they are in full agreement with the Baptist Faith and Message 2000. Furthermore, each author agrees that he/she will not write anything contrary to our statement of faith. Prior to publishing, works are carefully reviewed by an editorial team to ensure compliance with the agreement.

It is my joy to introduce you to NEBP's first catalog. The following page introduces you to the purpose, vision, and mission of NEBP. You will then notice that NEBP has two divisions. The primary division focuses on publishing books written for the biblically conservative pastor and layman. The academic division (NEBP Academic) is designed specifically with the pastor/scholar, professor, college student, and seminary student in mind. The Summer 2021 Catalog contains books from both divisions, a couple of featured works, as well as announcements concerning series of books coming out soon. In the final pages of the catalog, you will be introduced to our publishing leadership team and discover information about submitting manuscripts, as well as requesting review and exam copies of our published works.

At NEBP, we look forward to earning your personal trust and becoming your publisher of choice. Enjoy browsing through our Summer 2021 Catalog!

NEBP is the publisher you can trust!

In Him,

Mark H. Ballard, PhD
Publisher